Announcements

29 JUNE 2018

Analyswift has recently licensed one of its software programs, VABS. VABS has been licensed by Seoul National University for design optimization of composite helicopter blades and high aspect ratio wings in their Active Aeroelasticity and Rotorcraft Laboratory (AARL). More details of this licensing opportunity can be found in the attached press release or can be accessed via the company's profile page within the portal.

29 JUNE 2018

Several new projects have kicked off recently! Please see the attachment below to learn more about completed and ongoing projects.

29 JUNE 2018

Join us for the Summer 2018 Members Meeting in Knoxville, Tennessee

We will be showcasing the innovative capabilities of IACMI's Tennessee partners, including the University of Tennessee, Knoxville and Oak Ridge National Laboratory. The meeting will highlight advancements in all IACMI technology areas, member successes, technical project updates, workforce development initiatives, and much more. Join us is July 24 – 27, 2018, to network with IACMI members, discuss the 15+ IACMI project advancements, and tour several IACMI facilities in the area. Tennessee is home to nearly 20 IACMI members, and we look forward to showcasing the innovations, thought leadership, and hospitality of East Tennessee.

What is Cost Share?

- Cost share is a contribution from an IACMI partner in support of the contract.
- Cost share helps IACMI to meet our cost matching goals with DOE – i.e., at least a 1:1 match.
- Cost share supports projects and partners.
